

Emerging Ponzi Markets?

The Elevator Text Version

Draft

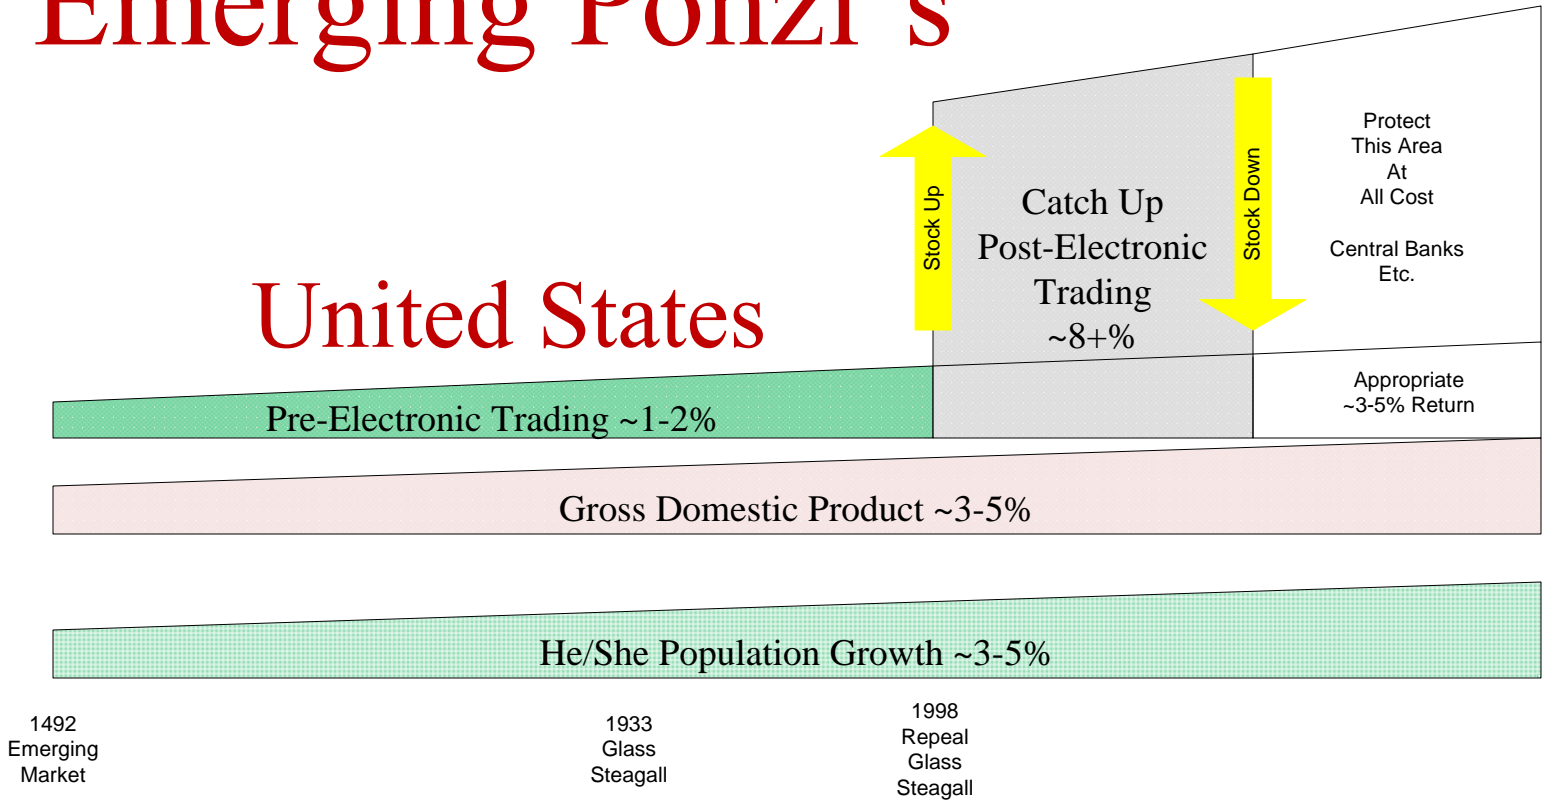

The market played catch up and reached a value that many depended upon, including most governments, and once the catch up was reached there was a failure to drop the market trade value back to a base line level.

As most governments and many people depended on monies collected on profits made above the 3-5% baseline and after the market should have adjusted downwards from the +8% to 3-5%, appears, all efforts are being made to preserve this inflated area as it has a greater false financial return.

Opinion offered, modern market actions escalated the collapse of the multi millennium Ponzi scheme. If greed in the inflated above 3-5% areas had not occurred, the Ponzi scheme just might have continued for a few more millenniums.

Emerging Ponzi's

United States

Year 2010 Emerging Markets

